Visiting City Strike Paralyzes Other Cities Hit City of New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Strikes by comparatively small groups of workers dealt paralyzing blows today to the millions living in New York City, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

NEW YORK CITY'S business and amusement activities were at a standstill as the city faced a crisis in the fuel shortage resulting from a nine-day strike by 3,500 tugboat workers.

The heavy industrial centre of Pittsburgh and some 1,500,000 residents in a 50-mile area of the metropolitan area were threatened with being deprived of electrical service as a strike of 3,400 power service employees started at 4 a.m. EST. Shortly after, all street car service was suspended and Pittsburgh's full force of policemen and firemen were called out to cope with any emergency.

A transit strike in Philadelphia by 2,000 workers continued for the second day and business in the three cities was threatened with being disrupted and millions inconvenienced.

THE SITUATION in New York City appeared the most grave. Mayor William O'Dwyer ordered closing all places of public assembly, was unprecedented in the peace-time history of the world's largest city.

Worthington will devote five Edmonton residents who won awards during the Second World War at an event on Page 2, Col. 1.

Predicts Failure Ukraine Demand

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault today predicted failure of the Soviet Ukrainian demand that the United Nations Security Council set up a commission to investigate conditions in Indonesia.

"The Ukrainian delegation cannot get the votes necessary for its resolution," Mr. Bidault told the council. "We must look for another solution."

He suggested that Council President N. J. O. Malik of Australia might dispose of the case simply by issuing a statement noting that arguments had been presented on both sides and that the Dutch government was negotiating directly with the Indonesian nationalists for settlement of their independence demand.

Mexico led off the debate by supporting the proposal for a commission. Cyr de Freitas (Brazil) said that his government was negotiating to sending a commission to Indonesia.

He expressed hope for success of the direct negotiations between the Indonesians and the Dutch government.

J. A. King, chairman of the Alberta Liquor Control Board, when contacted at the Edmonton office on Tuesday morning and queried on the above news item would not comment. Asked if it indicated any termination of the end of liquor rationing he had no comment to make.

Anyway Edmonton Storemen Not Worried No Rush for Nylons Here, Oh Yeah!

By BERT NIGHTINGALE
Women may have department store executives worried in other parts of Canada, but in Edmonton the men behind the counters aren't expressing any concern over what may happen when nylon hosiery goes on sale here Feb. 19.

"I THINK PROBABLY our Edmonton women are a little more civilized than the feminine population of other cities," chuckled one hosiery department manager when he was quizzed about barricades and other protections against stocking stampedes.

The fact that mild, desperate for the nylon that makes of her "gams" objects of beauty guaranteed to last long. In addition, all Edmonton hosiery dealers are putting their nylon sales on Feb. 19, the day the nylon goes on sale. "We don't think there will be any stampedes," he said. "We'll have a few people who will come in and look at the stockings, but they won't buy them. They'll wait until the 19th."

In most cases nylons will be sold for regular customers, but in one large department store the sale will be held in the afternoon. The area will be roped off into aisles with tickets for each sale.

Nylon Stampede Worries Plague Canada Stores

WINNIPEG, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Retail merchants here are taking precautionary measures for the expected stocking stampede when nylons go on sale Feb. 19.

Their chief concern is how to protect the counters. "We don't want them pushed over on our nylons," one manager said. "Another retailer intends to move his glass counters to the back of the store."

Gets Highest Award For Dierpie Heroism

By JACK BRATLEY
OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—(CP)—A big Presbyterian padre who refused evacuation from shell-torn Dieppe beaches to stay behind and save the lives of wounded men has become Canada's 14th Victoria Cross winner of the Second World War and first chaplain of the Canadian armed forces ever to get the coveted medal.

DEFENCE headquarters today announced the award to Maj. John Weir Foote, 41, native of Mador, Ont., chaplain of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and the Empire's 17th V.C. of the war.

He is also the sixth member of the Canadian Army to win the V.C. and second Dieppe hero to be so honored. Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt of Vancouver is the other.

THE THICK-SET, pipe-smoking padre with graying hair, left the Macdonald hotel.

St. Paul's church at Port Hope, Ont., to join the army. He landed with the Hamiltons on the big Canadian raid Aug. 19, 1942, and refused the award. Then he returned to his home and continued his work and he was taken prisoner—the same fate that overtook Col. Merritt.

The survivors of Dieppe told of the brave deeds of a "Padre" who slung the wounded over his broad shoulders and walked the beach under a hail of bullets.

President Speaks Federal Bonuses Discussed At Dairymen's Convention

"Butter is in short supply, milk production in Alberta being down 4.4 per cent, and we are being told by experts in the dairymen industry that unless the production of cream is increased at least five per cent, butter rations must be reduced," stated J. B. Ritchie, Clover Bar, president of the Alberta Dairymen's Association, in the opening address of its three day convention, Tuesday, in the Macdonald hotel.

Pair Wounded Cafe Stabbing Details Given As Trial Opens

The story of a "jostle" which ended in a stabbing affray in which two women were seriously wounded, was told in supreme court today by Justice G. B. O'Connor, as Stanley E. Chapman went on trial on charges of wounding two women in the face. The witness said "you may not get off so easy if you assault me, and then I'll punch you in the nose." He pulled a knife with which he stabbed the two women.

THE STABBING took place on Nov. 29 last in a 96 street cafe, between Frederick E. Wilford and Mrs. Beatrice Lund. Both were seriously wounded. The wounds allegedly inflicted by Chapman.

Mr. Lund told the court that he entered the cafe as he was just by Chapman and the accused replied that he would slap him. "You may not get off so easy if you assault me, and then I'll punch you in the nose," he said. He pulled a knife with which he stabbed the two women.

Following the slaying a woman in the company of Chapman stated the sale will be held in the afternoon. The area will be roped off into aisles with tickets for each sale.

Discuss Proposed Cut in Gas Rates

Preliminary discussions between R. B. Miller, N.C. president of the Northwestern Utilities, Julian Gair, general manager of the company, and city commissioners on proposed reductions in the natural gas rates in Edmonton were held Tuesday at the Civic Block.

Mr. Miller said the company submitted its operational accounts up to the end of 1945. It was made for the accounts covering the 1945 operation to fight with Mr. Lund. Mr. Miller said the company would be within the next week or ten days when a further meeting of company and city officials would be held.

In the meantime G. R. D. Kinney, N.C. vice president, and Aileen chartered accountants and city auditor, will examine the company's accounts and will prepare a statement on them for the commissioners.

The date of the next meeting of the company and city executive officers will be determined by the time taken for the preparation of the statement, and the length of time taken for the city to examine the statement.

Leading Official Ease Restrictions On Atlantic Travel

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(CP)—The British ministry of war transport confirmed here yesterday the war-time government priority control of passenger traffic across the Atlantic by ship will be partially lifted Feb. 15.

The priority system is being lifted only on eastbound trips, an official said, and he emphasized that although passage may be obtained to Britain, it may be difficult to get back because of the still large numbers of Canadian and American servicemen awaiting repatriation home.

A CUNARD-WHITE STAR line official said "After Feb. 15, passage is on a basis of first come, first served. The only change is that the wartime priority system, being disregarded. During the war, the purpose of a trip was all-important, with soldiers and government officials getting first call. From now on, the shipping companies will be in charge and no priorities will be established."

He said his company had no announcement at this time to make on the future of its giant liners, the Queens Elizabeth and Queen Mary, which still are operating as troop ships.

The United Kingdom produces approximately two-fifths of the world's output of marine engines in normal times.

Packing Dispute Is Near Solution

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—(CP)—Canadian packinghouse companies and the United Packinghouse Workers' Union of America CIO were understood last night to be very near agreement in their dispute over interpretation of a working clause which at one time threatened to provoke a nation-wide packinghouse strike.

Mr. Justice S. E. Richards of Winnipeg, appointed as an unofficial conciliator of the dispute, conferred with representatives of the companies and the union again in Toronto in the past few days. Mr. Justice Richards had no statement to make last night but he intimated that the remaining differences were minor.

THE UNION, through its representative John Lenglet, claimed that a formula had been devised for submission to the union and the companies in which the union was upheld on most of its demands.

The companies and the union had agreed on a 45-hour daily week at Winnipeg last week and the differences arose over daily hours and rates of overtime. Lenglet asserted that the new formula, which remains to be approved by the companies and the union, provided for payment of overtime on a daily basis instead of on a weekly basis. The new formula, according to Lenglet, also provided for wage increases retroactive to Nov. 1 for piece workers and weekly-paid employees who were not granted wage increases under the former award.

General Crerar Inspects Vets' Hospitals Here

Veterans in the Jesuit College hospital and the Col. Mewburn Pavilion, University hospital, had the opportunity on Monday afternoon of chatting with the leader of the First Canadian Army, General H. D. G. Crerar, C.B., D.S.O., as he went from ward to ward at each of the hospitals and held informal talks with the patients.

FOLLOWING the reception accorded him at the Macdonald hotel, the general visited veterans in the Jesuit college hospital. During his tour there he was shown through the wards by Major H. Weir, officer in charge of the hospital.

At the Mewburn pavilion Gen. Crerar was conducted through the wards by Mr. Proctor, Dr. Easton, Dr. A. C. McGowan, superintendent, University hospital; Miss Peters, superintendent of nurses; Dr. S. Spenser; Capt. Guy Morton, R.C.M.C.; Dr. Max E. Geismann; Dr. O. Bostrop; Dr. Kenneth A. Hamilton and Dr. Hastings Mewburn.

GENERAL CRERAR spent more than an hour asking veteran-patients questions dealing with the nature of their illnesses, treatments and if wounded, in which battle they received their wounds.

In his casual way of talking to the vets, he general seemed to put them at ease and even make them forget that they were talking to a high-ranking officer. He gave them the feeling as "man to man" talk, as one veteran to another.

At 5 p.m. the general inspected a

More City Revenue

Edmonton taxes this year will be spread over $3,546,930 more assessed property than carried the last year. This increase in the assessment total is due to the sale of city-owned property and the new improvements coming on the tax-roll. There has been no revaluation of other property for tax purposes.

This means that revenue in the neighborhood of $180,000 will come from these new sources. As one mill yields something more than $80,000 in revenue, council will have the option of cutting two mills or so from the 49½ mill rate imposed last year, or of spending the extra revenue in improved services.

A further encouraging fact is that the assessment for 1947 is bound to mark an orderly increase from the same causes. There is a time-lag between the assessment and the issuing of a building permit and the appearance of the improved property on the tax-roll. The steady sale of land and issue of permits now going to will therefore see a further addition next year to the assessment total over which taxation is spread.

Edmonton, it can be assumed, is now the big jump has passed. The city-owned property-owners can look forward to lower mil l rates or expanding improvements, or both.

The "Pat" Gets Smaller

The butter ration in Canada is to be cut one-third during the winter months. The allowance per person will be four ounces per week, not much more than a pound per month. It was cut some time ago from seven ounces per week to six, but even at that reduced rate production has failed to keep pace with consumption. The choice was to try to supply the deficit by rationing the and then go without. The ration officials chose the former of the unwelcome alternatives.

Why this scarcity? The explanation given is that while Canada's population has increased by births and the return of servicemen amounting to 600,000 in the past year, butter manufacture has fallen off. The output in January was 15 per cent less than in January of 1945.

A curious feature of the situation is that milk production in the United States is increased. But milk consumption also went up; enormous quantities were and are being used to produce cheese for Britain and to supply canned milk to the armed forces in the countries. Not enough was left or it is being left to keep the butter output up to even the six ounces per person per week volume.

While he says the ration is a necessary allowance of butter, the adult consumer may therefore reflect with satisfaction that babies in Canada are guzzling as usual, and that a lot of the nation's milk supply is going—as cheese and in condensed form —to provide proteins to people overseas who are hungrier than Canadians have ever been.

Neglected Children

There is something to be said for the somewhat heated viewpoint of the Dominion fire commissioner, who wants Parliament to amend the Criminal Code, so that parents who criminally neglect their children who children left at home alone are injured or killed by fire.

It is doubtful, however, if any fine or term of imprisonment will add very much to the punishment suffered by parents who are careless in this respect results in the injury or death of a child.

For children, except in very rare cases, are not left alone in houses or apartments through malice or cruelty or even indifference.
This practice is based on two human weaknesses. The first is that parents alone are thinking, and the second of which is the disposition to take a chance—even with the lives of those who are most precious.

More than that, parents who are alone are neglected in the strictly legal meaning of the term, they are not necessarily "neglected" in the social meaning of it.
Over and over again, the commissioner that this practice must be stopped, and because, as he points out, too many Canadian children lose their lives in fires which occur in the absence of their parents.

It is a crime to neglect a child, and this habit a criminal offense is perhaps a bit harsh for the simple reason that more modern measures would likely stop a step to it.

What is needed, of course, is a law which impressive educational campaign which will make all parents acutely aware of what can happen to their children when they are left alone in a house or apartment where the necessary amendments to the Code could be made.

It is almost unthinkable that parents who had the dangers brought vividly before them to their attention would continue to thus risk the lives and bodies of their children.

Still on the Job

General elections were held in Russia on Sunday. They were of course proceedings which would be identified as a sham by any in any democratic country. The Russian pattern is distinctive. It is designed to keep the Communist party in power, and does.

The Russian voters had no choice of candidates. The ballot carried only one name, hand-picked by the party strategists. If the voter did not like the party, or the candidate, or the candidate's hair-cut, or something the candidate had said, all he could do about it was run his pencil through the one name on the ballot—and take chances on what might be done to him. Remembering the disciplinary "purges," not many voters took the chance.

From the democratic viewpoint this is a farce, a farce, which makes it the ideal of a cipher and puts the party in the place of the state. However, if that is the way the Russians want to run their affairs, they have no cause to quarrel with them on the subject. It is their business, and so is the business of the powerful party, not as all-powerful parties in Germany and Italy and Japan chose to act, well and good.

There will be general and positive satisfaction abroad because Premier Stalin is to carry on. True, the elections could not take place at the polls, but a revolt among the party representatives in the Supreme Soviet could. Of this there is no hint of possibility.
This augurs well for international harmony and the success of the U.N.O. Mr. Stalin enjoys confidence among foreign governments and peoples which a successor could not hope to inherit in any similar measure.

General Homma has been sentenced to death by shooting, a less ignominious fate than was prescribed for Yamashita. The incumbent, that is Homma was considered in some degree less accountable for the outrages committed by his troops.

Since people in the Greenwhich-Standford area do not want to give up their country homes to provide a site for the U.N.O. headquarters, the Canadian delegation in the Assembly made the fact a subject of probability at any other site in that vicinity would do.
Tactful because indefinite delay in the matter might lead to the headquarters being located in Europe. Delegates could get an impression that the world "capital" is not wanted on this side of the Atlantic.

Strong-man Peron wants Argentines there is likely to be bloodshed around the polling places when the presidential elections are held next week from Sunday. His ministry announces that federal, state and local police, and 250,000 troops, will be used to see that things run smoothly on election-day.
His opponents, however, will see in these election-day happenings, will see in these preparations a sign that Peron's credence is likely to be fulfilled if they try to crowd into the polls.

pleasant. While the intent of the law is to bring into convulsion on account of the extraordinary powers of the judiciary magistrates, and while the amendments are in many respects sound, it is taken that these powers are excessive, this ordinance instead of reducing them has increased them.

If the three stipendiary magistrates in the city council who no doubt are responsible for the ordinance think fit to take themselves judges and to step their court the high court of justice, while admitting that they are not judges, they are not judges, that account. But when they take to themselves the power to alter the bounds of the various court districts as frequently as they please, it is time to draw the line.

Manchester Guardian Analyzes New Set-Up

Atlee Government's Legislation Is Little More Than Extension of Controls Imposed During the War With Advisory Council Created to Assist the Chancellor of the Exchequer But New Feature Is Treasury-Guaranteed Loans.

LONDON, (By Special Cable)—passed by the laborites as the (and adopted practically intact by the CCF in Canada) will not be necessary.

WHY INVESTMENT CONTROL on the lines proposed by the government in Great Britain last year, has become no longer necessary is suggested by the Manchester Guardian.

It said: "For one thing the Bank of England is now being brought into the picture and the banking system can be pretty fully guided under the provisions taken in the bank bill. A large and growing sector of industry will be nationalized and its capital expenditures will be automatically controlled by the Government."

The newspaper compared the Labor Government's investment control with the principles laid down by the previous government for its capital issues committee and its national investment board, set up in 1941.

It said: "The chief new feature of the bill is the provision for the treasury to guarantee loans to private enterprise up to £50,000,000 a year. This is expected to be the main method of financing the reconstruction of key British industries, like cotton and shipbuilding."

THE PUBLIC HEALTH subcommittee of the House of Commons has today approved a bill to transfer the control of public health to the local authorities.

THE INVESTMENT CONTROL bill starts off with the formula: "No person shall borrow money for any purpose other than the payment of the interest on any loan or the redemption of any loan."

By Randolph Churchill
Franco Professes to Believe It Is Still Too Early to Judge Whether Majority of Spaniards Favor Monarchy's Restoration.

MADRID—General Franco has not the slightest intention of resigning his job and power, he said today in establishing the monarchy. He made this abundantly plain to him when he received me at Parlo Parlo, on Sunday, and said: "I am not going to resign."

It was the first time I had seen him since nine years ago at Salamanca, during the Spanish Civil War. He did not seem to have aged a day since that interval. He is only 52 and looks 40. He is vigorous and self-confident.

As expected, Franco claimed he was a monarchist. He said that he was a monarchist by mistake, but in the interests of Spain and the monarchy, he was a monarchist. He said that he was a monarchist by mistake, but in the interests of Spain and the monarchy, he was a monarchist.

Alberta Dairymen Open 3-Day Silver Jubilee Meeting

Vital Problems of Industry Will be Carefully Studied By More Than 300 Delegates

By J. V. O'NEILL

This week the eyes of agricultural Alberta will be focussed on Edmonton, where many of the problems affecting one of its most important branches—dairying—will be aired before the more than 300 delegates expected to attend the 25th annual convention of the Alberta Dairymen's Association.

TUESDAY MORNING the three-day Silver Jubilee convention opened with registration at the MacDonald hotel and a large number of delegates from all parts of the province formed a queue at the registration desk. With many members expected to arrive later in the day an accurate count of the attendance could not be made but estimates made early placed there already here for the session at about 300.

Delegates will be welcomed to the city Tuesday evening by Mayor Harry Ainlay and C. D. Jacob, president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

James B. Ritchie, Clover Bar, long identified with the Alberta Dairymen's Association as one of its most ardent supporters, is president. Besides holding many other offices in the intervening years, Dr. Wilster is a noted authority.

and lecturer on dairying and is a featured guest speaker at the convention. He will address several other sessions during the sessions.

ALTHOUGH the association marks its silver jubilee of 25 years at the present convention it was actually formed in Feb. 1919, following many years of organizational work throughout the province, probably receiving its first impetus more than 37 years ago, when a veteran pioneer settler, Ebenezer Healy, set up the first dairy factory in the province, a cheese factory in the Springbank district.

The movement was afoot to organize the whole of the province even at that early date. The desire of the pioneer residents of Edmonton to have a dairy was expressed editorially in 1889 by Alberta's first newspaper, The Edmonton Bulletin. Under the caption, "A necessary for Edmonton," it read in part:

"... the advantage to the district of having creameries established would be that their product would be capable of profitable export and would bring cash or its equivalent into the district, thereby making money more plentiful and benefiting everyone accordingly. ... Our market lies in British Columbia, and the freight from Edmonton to Calgary by team is not so great as the freight from Manitoba or Ontario by rail, from which localities British Columbia is now supplied and with whom only we would have to compete. ... all that is required is to furnish a desirable article, just such as this district can furnish, and furnish profitably, by means of co-operative creameries, with a very little investment of capital and a willingness on the part of those interested to work together."

FIFTYEVEN years have passed since that editorial was published. There have been hundreds since which The Edmonton Bulletin has published in the interests of expanding not only the dairying industry but all other branches of Alberta's agriculture and although there are many things to be improved and corrected in present agriculture. The Bulletin takes pardonable pride in the participation it was privileged to enjoy during the progress of Alberta's agricultural pioneers to the status the province has now achieved, not the least of which is parts of the Dominion who have

ALTHOUGH there is nothing on the published agenda of the convention to suggest the dairymen will deal with present price problems it is expected mention will be made of the hint that the federal government intends removing the present subsidy of two cents per quart on milk delivered domestically.

According to officers of the Alberta Farmers' Union this pending removal of the subsidy is more than a rumor, and as many members of the AFU are interested in dairying they are expected to contact Ottawa for a substantiation or denial.

If it proves true it means that the consumer will pay 12 cents a quart for milk which under the wartime subsidy cost them only 10 cents. This, says AFU, would work a hardship upon families in the lower income brackets, whose daily consumption of milk for growing families is large.

Lauds Army Teamwork Crerar Calls on Canadians To Realize Duties to Others

Defining discipline to mean self-control—the repression of self in the interests of the many—General Crerar stressed Monday the value of this virtue in civil life as he suggested that thousands of men and women now being demobilized had been made aware of its importance. He was speaking at a banquet held in his honor in the Macdonald hotel.

"That knowledge, driven home by the problems faced and overcome during battle and in preparation for battle is coming back to Canada with those who belonged to the first Canadian Army," he said. "That understanding does not prove an asset to our social and economic and national life, then nothing I can think of ever will."

Linked with discipline is the conviction the men of the first Canadian Army acquired in their years of association that teamwork has a tremendous power. This is the quality, the general said, which enabled the Canadian Army to "maintain its magnificent record of invincibility in its objectives and successfully in its object, in every operation."

The various branches which go to make up a modern army with all the many formations, units, battalions and individuals concerned with each operation knew exactly what it was called upon to do, and what was necessary to be done to help the other parts of the service or individuals to attain their particular objective, he continued. "Believe me," he said, "I am again to the men to be demobilized, that these men can contribute substantially in civilian life to the conception of teamwork on their return to civilian life."

Those units and sub-units mobilized in various towns and cities across Canada have been returning to their home cities as units. General Crerar said, as he recalled a visit to the railway station in Hamilton, Ont. in the late summer of 1919 when he had gone to the depot to welcome back to the army the artillery battery with which he had been long associated. The train was full of men, and many of the young men represented the old army which had left Hamilton 20 years ago.

"I determined then, and I have maintained that, that the discipline, that when regiments returned to Canada, they would do so in a manner worthy of their discipline and their high tradition," the general said. "Many lives were willingly sacrificed and many hardships accepted by the soldiers in each regiment to ensure that the reputation of that same unit should be made and always maintained."

Request for CO of Canada to the war had loved ones during the war who were by the former army commander, but that he has not more words could do little to ease the pain of loss.

"And, yet, I do so firmly believe that it is not the length of a man's life, but the quality of it, that has accomplished in the time he has at his disposal. On that basis, there should be mourning for the man who will never return but a quiet pride in the fact that he gave his life to save the world from a tyranny more than death," he said.

"That they have saved the world from a cruel dictatorship by their combined efforts does not mean that we can now relax or cease to take an interest in the development of our country, the distinguished speaker said as he challenged the average citizen to grasp the political and social truth that his responsibility to others is more important than particular advantages to himself.

"INDIVIDUAL SELFISHNESS is much a curse in the country as it is in the home," he stated. "The transition from economic and social demands of a total war demands from all the continued sacrifice for the benefit of others or our heretofore established peace will fail, the general warned.

Canada faces many problems, some of them of her own making, and others which we have inherited, but none of these are insoluble of solution if Canadians live up to their traditions of the past.

"MY MAIN MESSAGE to you," he concluded, "is the confidence I have in the veterans of this war, as of the last, to help his country in peace no less than he did in war. If all Canadians now determine to do likewise, nothing can stand in the way of a great future for our country and nothing will."

Guests, except those at the head table, were assembled in the main dining room of the Macdonald hotel.
